Our Littleness in the Universe.

Astronomers say that this world of ours, which seems to us so large, is in fact so small in comparison with the sun and stars, that its presence or absence is, to the universe, a matter of inconceivably small importance, and that, even in its own system, it would hardly be noticed by an eye capable of taking in at one view the sun and its attendant planets.

Sir John Herschel gives the following illustration of the size and distance of these bodies. "Choose," he says, "any well-leveled field. On it place a globe two feet in diameter; this will represent the sun: Mercury will be represented by a grain of mustard seed on the circumference of a circle 164 feet in diameter for its orbit: Venus, a pea in a circle of 284 feet in diameter; the earth, also, a pea on a circle of 430 feet; Mars, a rather large pin's head in a circle of 654 feet; Jupiter, a moderate sized orange in a circle nearly half a mile across, Saturn, a smaller orange on a circle of four-fifths of a mile; Uranus, a full-sized cherry upon the circumference of a circle more than a mile and a half; and Neptune, a good-sized plum on a circle two and a half miles in diameter."

If our earth were struck out of existence, it would hardly be missed from such a system. But this is far from the extreme of our littleness. The evening sky is studded with stars. Between us and them is empty space. As we look across it, the distance does not seem so very great, and even astronomers were long in learning how great it is, and how utterly isolated the sun with its train of planets is from even the nearest star. Keeping the same scale as before, in which our inconceivable distance from the sun, 92½ millions of miles, was reduced to a dozen rods or so, and then setting out to visit our neighbors, if we are lucky enough to turn our steps to the nearest, we find before us a journey of nearly 9,000 miles. Had we directed our course to any other of the stars our road would have been many thousand miles longer. There are stars from which light requires 6,000 years to reach our globe!—Popular Science Monthly.

WILL POWER AND FASTING.—A young mechanic, condemned to four years' imprisonment in Italy, has managed to starve himself to death in 30 days. Dr. Tanner fasted 40, and is none the worse for it. But the Italian willed to die, while Tanner willed to live—a very important difference in the two cases. There used to be a theory that people need not die at all if their wills were strong enough. Absurd as it was, it contained a grain of truth. Weak-willed men succumb to accidents or attacks of disease, while men of strong will live through. The experience of army surgeons abounds in instances of remarkable recoveries of plucky fellows who seemed to have no chance of fighting off death, and of equally remarkable deaths of soldiers with flabby resolution who succumbed to slight wounds. On the whole, the mechanics case is rather more interesting than Dr. Tanner's. Both confute a host of medical writers, who say that nine days' abstinence from food will kill a healthy man; but the young Italian has demonstrated that a man who tries to kill himself by the starvation process, may be a whole month finishing the job.—N. Y. Tribune.

PROVIDENTIAL.—Parish clerks, especially if they happen to be shoe-makers, are generally of a philosophical turn of mind. Here is an example related by an old Rector, who was standing with his clerk in his church-yard ruefully contemplating the fallen grandeur of a stately elm which had lately ornamented the picturesque burial place of the "rude forefathers of the hamlet." After gazing for some time on the wreck the clerk at length broke the sorrowful silence by addressing the Rector thus: "I dare say you remember, sir, the violent storms of the Spring of 1833. I have heard there were more elms blown down then than ever before known; and in the Autumn of that year we had the cholera. Now, coffins, you know, are made of elm: these trees, therefore, were doubtless blown down on purpose to supply the extra number of coffins which Providence foresaw would be required before the year ended.—Chambers' Journal."

Dr. Cooper, in Fraser's Magazine, argues that only those eye-glasses that are made of the purest glass can be considered safe—specks, rays, globules, or other imperfections, are detrimental. Though more costly, pebbles possess two important advantages, namely: extreme hardness, rendering it difficult to scratch or break them, and clearness, never becoming dull from moisture; and they are also thought to be cooler than other glass. To be good and true the glasses should likewise be, in all their parts, of an equal thickness in proportion to their convexity, as well as of an equal form. Another an easily applied test of true glasses is that of holding them obliquely over print, all the letters of which will be found to preserve their true character if the glasses are correct.

A machine for making pies has lately been patented. This, taken in connection with the patent substitute for eggs will be good news for boarding-house keepers.

The monotony of a man's life is generally due to the fact that he has no change.

Single or Double Beds.

I cannot do better than commence what I have to say concerning beds and bedding by protesting against the double bed. The system of having beds in which two persons sleep is always, to some extent unhealthy. No two persons are so constituted as to sleep naturally under the same weight of bed-clothes and on the same kind of bed or mattress. But sleep to be perfect and profound and restorative should be so prepared for that not a single discomfort should interrupt it. A good illustration of the fact to which I am directing attention is shown at the industrial schools at Annerly. The visitor to those schools, in which children most unhealthily born are reared into a condition of health which is singularly good, and which seems to prove that even hereditary evils may be educated out of the body almost in one generation—the visitor to those schools will find in the dormitories there that each has its own little bed. It will be asked perhaps—in fact, I heard it asked—whether this plan is not very expensive and troublesome, causing double bed-making, double bed-airing, double laundry work, and double cost of bed linen and coverings. Well, the reply was, that there is an extra cost in regard to those particulars, but that, on the whole, there is an untold saving in relation to health. The children rise from their beds really refreshed and in every way better for the separate occupation. In this manner the sick list is kept free to a great extent, and as one sick child in its infirmary sick-couch is an anxiety by night as well as by day, and as one sick child confined to its bed by its sickness is more trouble and anxiety than half a dozen healthy children occupying each a separate bed during sleeping hours, there is a positive saving of trouble and expense in the course of the year from the practice of the single bed system. It is not difficult to discover the reason of the saving of health. The fact that no two persons are constituted to require the same kind of clothes and the same kind of bedding has been already adverted to which may be added the further fact that no children or persons can sleep under the same covering without one being a cause of some discomfort to the other, by movement, position of drag of clothing. Beyond these discomforts, moreover, there is the question of emanations from the breath. At some time or other the breath of one of the sleepers must, in some degree, affect the other; the breath is heavy, disagreeable, it may be so intolerable that in waking hours, when the senses are alive to it, it would be sickening, soon after a short exposure to it. Here in bed with the senses locked up, the disagreeable odor may not be realized, but assuredly because it is not detected it is not less injurious.

I need not pursue this subject much further, common sense will tell everybody who will reflect on the subject with common sense that I am correct, and that it is best for persons of every age to have to themselves the shelter within which they pass one-third of their whole lives—30 years of life if they live to be 90 years old. I dwell, therefore, only on one point more in favor of the single bed, and that is to enforce the lesson that under the single-bed system it is rendered impossible to place very old and very young persons to sleep together. To the young this is a positive blessing for there is no practice more deleterious to them than to sleep with the aged. The vital warmth that is not so essential for their growth and development is robbed from by the aged, and they are enfeebled at a time when they are at least able to bear the enfeeblement.—Good Words.

Custer was the name of a Newfoundland dog that belonged to a New Jersey girl. "We trained him to hold the halter in his mouth and lead the horses away," she said. "He could carry two eggs in his huge mouth and never break one. He could turn a knob as well as any one, and on entering a room would always turn around and put his paw on the door to close it. If this failed, he would jump upon the door, taking care not to scratch with his nails. If any one sat down in the house without doffing his hat, Custer would steal stealthily up behind him and pull it off, then dropping it on the floor at the side of his chair would walk quietly away and lie down, as one who had performed a duty. We would wrap a few pennies in a paper and send him with it in his mouth to a store for candy, of which he was very fond, after delivering it to us he would stand expectantly by, wagging his tail and waiting for the sweet morsel he was sure to get. He was fond of milk, too, but would carry it faithfully to our pet lamb, and though he would glance lovingly into the pail occasionally, he was never known to betray our trust or steal one sip of the coveted beverage.

Courage is a wonderful agent in throwing off disease. A walk of five miles would cure many an occupant of the lounge. Will-power will surpass pill-power in nine cases out of ten, if not in every one. To hold a bottle of smelling salts in the hand on account of a headache may be just the thing at times, but to fling a pound of fruit cake out into the alley, and then walk a furlong as a reward for not eating the cake pound, is nearly always a much better thing.

NATIVE WINE.—The New York Herald says: California ought to be able to sell a large part of their Wine crop to Germans this year, and to the French for soms years to come. The Wines of California are so cheap and so pure that they have been used in increasing quantities in European countries to give "body" to the Wines of those countries. No doubt some part of this export from California returns to the United States in the shape of German and French Wines, so called. It is a notable fact that cheaper French Wines are sold here now at a little if any higher rates than when the French product was nearly three times what it now is. California Wines are valued by Wine "manufacturers" in Hamburg, Cette and other places abroad for their "mixing" qualities, and this process, which usefully ameliorates them, is much better understood in European countries than here. We already feed Europe. It seems that we shall be presently called on to supply drink as well as food.

A "BREEZE."—The Sacramento Record-Union gives an account of a "breeze" that occurred on Tuesday at a meeting of the State Board of Equalization between S. M. Wilson, attorney of the San Francisco corporations having their cases before the Board, and John R. Burke, the great corporation agitator, who had some sharp talk regarding a continuance of the cases. On leaving the room Wilson was followed by Burke, who asked for an explanation of his conduct. Wilson turned on Burke and with clenched fist threatened to whip him, and advanced toward Burke, who quietly presented a Colt's revolver to his admiring gaze, which promptly put a stop to further demonstrations on the part of Wilson. Attorneys are in poor business when they fight the battles of their clients with other than their professional weapons.

They have a steam crusher, stemmer and feeder in Napa county which will not only stem the grapes and crush them, but actually carry them from the wagons to the crusher, so that a teamster unloading his grapes can empty them directly from the wagon into the feeder which feeds them in to the crusher.

The oldest man in California is Juan Morino, now living on the Rancho La Brea, about six miles west of Los Angeles. He is at least 110, and may be several years older. His father was one of the twelve founders of the Pueblo Los Angeles in the year 1781.

By some flaw in the deeds, the people of Sumner, Kern county, have had no titles to their lots. Trouble was expected, but the C. P. R. R. authorities took immediate steps to perfect the titles, without further charge.

A son-in-law of Mr. Gridley, of Artesia, Los Angeles, was loading a wagon with grain lately. He stopped suddenly, threw his hand to his head and exclaimed, "What's that? I'm blind!" and fell to the ground, dead.

A drove of coyotes ventured into the town of Santa Ana a few nights ago, and began a delightful serenade. They were given a warm reception, however, by the village dogs and driven off.

Staunton, Virginia, where Wade Hampton made his virulent speech, has just organized a Garfield and Arthur club which includes among its members twenty-three who have never before been Democrats.

The New York World says: The obelisk was successively removed from the hold of the steamer Dessoug Saturday, and placed on the outer platform in less than an hour of actual working time.

The Southern Pacific Railroad is completed to San Simeon Valley, beyond Railroad Pass, to about 155 miles east of Tucson. The road will enter New Mexico during the present month.

Hon. J. B. Southard, who for years has been a tower of strength to the Democracy of California, comes out for Garfield and Arthur.

The steamer ——— from Liverpool, is bringing over 317 Mormon recruits. They are mostly English, Scotch and Welsh.

THE ASSEMBLYMAN.

We clip the following from the Inyo Independent:

The present political managers of Mono County, at least so far as the County Central Committees of the respective parties are concerned, seem to be men as equally unfamiliar with the political history and system of these two counties as they are unknown individually. Long ante-dating the apportionment of 1873-4 giving Mono and Inyo a joint Assemblyman, we were coupled with Tuolumne for legislative representation. At every election the parties of that county conceded one nominee each to this side of the mountains, and under this system the representation has invariably alternated since the organization of this county in 1865. Up to the time Mono gained its Bodie population, had party managers here seen fit, it was always within the political power of Inyo to totally ignore the votes of Mono. The system has worked unquestioned for fifteen years, becoming an unwritten law. In its regular turn, Mono had both nominees last year and of course elected the Representative, Mr. Wasson. The two counties and all the mining interests in the State should be proud of his success, and it is possible the Inyo Republicans may waive their right to the nomination in consideration of that fact—and expediency. On the Democratic side, Mono demands the nominee on the grounds of urgent political necessity—United States Senator business, etc. They made such a fancy success of it with Mesick last election that Democrats here would be disposed to let them try it, were it not for the destruction of a just and well-established rule. In the next contest Mono county's present flush of population will be so badly overslaughed by that of Inyo that the former will be assigned to a back seat, politically.

Our Inyo cotemporary is seemingly sounded through the nomination of our present Assemblyman for a re-election, and intimates that Mono is "hogging" the game in both parties. We surmise that the editor of the Independent would like the Democratic nomination, and that is where the shoe pinches. Is the wish father to the thought that "in the next contest Mono county's present flush of population will be so badly overslaughed by that of Inyo that the former will be assigned to a back seat, politically?" Inyo has our best wishes for an increased population, but don't you forget it, that the next State apportionment will give Mono an Assemblyman "separate and apart" from our sister county, and we will vote with Inyo for a Joint Assemblyman.

The Republicans of Inyo have agreed with great unanimity, to nominate Hon. Joseph Wasson for re-election to the Assembly, knowing him to be fully competent to represent such important mining counties as Mono and Inyo. Having served one term, his experience will be of great benefit to him and our local interests in shaping legislation. Mr. Wasson is the strongest man the Republicans can run for the Assembly, and he will bring to his support a large Democratic influence that desires to see our mining interests intelligently and faithfully represented.

PRESIDENT HAYES.—President Hayes has arrived in our State and met with a reception worthy of the man and the high office he holds. He visited the Comstock and Carson, at both places receiving a grand ovation. From Carson he went by stage, driven by the famous Hank Monk to Lake Tahoe and then on to Truckee, where he again took the cars for Oakland and San Francisco, where he arrived on Admission Day. Notwithstanding some of the Democratic papers have shown their low breeding by indulging in insulting language regarding his coming, all parties have given him an open-handed, cordial reception, gratifying both to himself and staff, and the people of our State, who have, for the first time in the history of California, the pleasure of having a President among them.

Our Mountain Climate.

The Sacramento Bee says: One frequently hears the expression, "Our climate is certainly changing; such weather, at this season, I never before experienced on the coast," and such like remarks. The truth is that, generally speaking, our climate has not shown any marked change beyond what might reasonably be expected in consequence of tilling the ground. Still, in certain localities, no doubt, local causes have operated to bring about noticable climatic changes. For instance, in the Sierra Nevada mountains, north of the railroad, it has been remarked that the snow has this year lain later than usual—that it is, in fact, yet quite deep in many places. Professor Legrate, who has been taking observations in the mountains this year, has a theory concerning the changes noticed in the climate of that section. He finds that the warm current of air which ever since the settlement of California by Americans—and probably ages before—had moved upright from the Pacific seaboard to the Sierra Nevada mountains, and thence turned and flowed to the northward along the west side of the main ridge of the range, thus giving to all regions in this direction a warm climate, no longer moves in that direction. It now comes up from the side of the ocean and pours eastward directly across the crest of the Sierra in the vicinity of Lake Tahoe. He believes that this wonderful isothermal change, which is leaving all the northern parts of the Sierra buried in snow, Summer and Winter, is caused by the denudation of timber which the mountains have suffered through a belt beginning at Lake Tahoe, and extending some twenty miles southward. Through the great gap thus left by the sweeping away of the forests, now flows the warm current of air which formerly moved—with something of the circling motion of water in an eddy—far along the mountains to the northward. Certain it is that our mountain forests cannot be stripped of their timber without causing fitful and uncertain changes of climate. And if the present wasteful system should be allowed to prevail many years more this fact will be forcibly—and perhaps most unpleasantly—demonstrated.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 30th, 1880.

General Chalmers, of Mississippi, one of the "Brigadiers" sent to Maine in the interest of the "Fusion" has returned to this city on his way South. In reply to an inquiry he said "I had big audiences and our fellows are working hard, but it is no use. The Republicans have got us in Maine." General Chalmers is right. The Republicans, he will find, have "got us," not only in Maine, but in every other State necessary to elect General Garfield. Senator Conkling has authorized a member of the National Committee to state that he will make four speeches in Indiana and three in Ohio. General Grant, it is said, will preside at the first meeting in the West at which Senator Conkling speaks. There are signs of increasing activity in the Republican camp. Men who have not interested themselves in politics for years are working with a vim to save the country by electing Garfield and Arthur. Mr. Blaine after the election in Maine, will stir up the West, going as far as California.

It is quite certain that in view of the Census frauds in South Carolina, a new enumeration will be ordered in that State. Some curious facts are coming to light concerning these frauds. In some cases the regularity of the handwriting, covering a whole sheet of the returns, shows that it was written at a single sitting, and not during the actual work of enumeration. Other enumerators left whole columns of details blank—a thing which would not have happened if each name had been recorded with all the details as it was received. These and many others are but a few of the transparent frauds which General Walker has discovered. They reflect little credit on the intelligence, to say nothing of the honesty, of South Carolina Democrats. The people that exercise power in South Carolina by means of the shot gun, retain it by the tissue ballot, seek to prolong it by vulgar frauds upon the Census; that emblem of faith, one section of another Once South Carolinians were a patrician class.

The late General Albert J. Myer was not the whole Signal Bureau, but he gave of his quick mind, and time and money to its advancement, and is entitled to great credit for what has already been accomplished by it. Its efficiency will not be disturbed by his taking off, and, if a judicious selection of a successor be made, we may be reasonably hopeful that in the future there will be greater improvement. No one will be named for the place until the President returns from the West. MAXWELL.

The Standard-News says that in the fiscal year 1867-68 over one hundred gallons of distilled liquors were manufactured in the United States. The tax was two dollars per gallon. The revenue from that source should have been two hundred millions of dollars. The revenue collected from that source was only seventeen millions of dollars.

And it demands a change. $17,000,000 on 100 gallons was a pretty heavy tax—enough to break the Democratic party.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

More Stage Robberies.

After a "rest" on the part of the stage robbers the Bodie bound stage from Carson was again stopped near Dalzell's on Saturday night last. The driver, Cambridge, was ordered to stop, and the passengers, eight in number, including three ladies, were ordered out and placed in a row, one of the robbers standing guard over them. They went through them for arms, but found but two revolver. They did not attempt to rob the passengers of valuables, merely wishing to get the express boxes which they took into the sage brush and opened, but did not make much of a haul. One of the robbers asked Mrs. Norton if she had any lunch with her; that they were hungry. She gave them some fruit, and another lady gave them some more substantials. They told Mrs. Norton she was a good woman, and then allowed the passengers to get in the stage, which was then allowed to proceed.

The stage which left Bodie at 5 o'clock the same evening, was met by the above stage near the elbow. This stage was accompanied by Messengers M. Toby and Tom Woodruff, and at Dalzell's Toby got off and walked following the track for some distance, but keeping with the stage, which was going slow. At the fork of the road he was saluted by one of the robbers in rough language and fired at but the shot missed Toby, but killed one of the lead horses. Toby ran to the stage to get his gun when the robber stepped to the head of the horses. The stage lamp threw its light on him and Toby, taking good aim, shot him dead. His companion fired his revolver at Toby and wounded him in the arm. Woodruff fired at him and he ran away. Woodruff and one of the passengers assisted Toby to the nearest house and in their absence the surviving robber returned and took the express box, broke it open and secured about $574—according to the way-bills, but he missed a package containing $700. They got nothing on any account from the Bodie bound stage.

On Monday night a man giving his name as Wm. T. Anderson was arrested at Cradelbaugh's bridge and taken to Carson on suspicion of being one of the robbers. He proved an alibi and was released.

These highwaymen were undoubtedly the same ones that have repeatedly robbed these stages, and it is to be hoped that the adventure has taught the survivor a lesson that he will not soon forget, and cause him to seek pastures new if he means to keep in the same business. The small fellow that was killed was a stranger in these parts. Wells, Fargo & Co., are puttin forth every effort to capture the robber o robbers and it is to be hoped that they will succeed in doing so, and rid the road of such dangerous characters.

MORE HOMICIDES.—After we went to press on Saturday last, two more homicides occurred in this place. About 9 o'clock on that evening a man named Hackwell was shot to death on Main street near the lower dance house by an unknown friend of a Spanish woman with whon he had some trouble.

About midnight John Rann shot and killed Manuel Costello, the affray growing out of the death of Hackwell. Rann was followed and crowded into a corner of a saloon down town by Costello and others, who were bent on having trouble with Rann, who at last drew his revolver, when officer Tex tried to prevent trouble and seized the pistol, which went off—accidentally, as claimed by Rann—and shot Costello, who died shortly after.

PERSONAL.—Judge F. K. Bechtel and J. C. Turner Superintendent of the South Bulwer, returned yesterday from their Eastern trip to the Knights Templar Conclave at Chicago. After the Conclave they went further East to visit friends and return none the worse for the trip. Welcome home.

W. H. Ellis, our well-known stationer leaves on this afternoon's stage for the Eastern States on a business tour to Chicago, Philadelphia and his native town New York. He will be absent about two months.

ROBBERY.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening, the sleeping room in the rear of the Eureka Saloon was entered, and a trunk belonging to the Leman Brothers taken out and carried on to the open space in the rear of that block and rifled of its contents, consisting of clothing, cigars, some $20 in odd coins, etc. The clothing was found in a lumber yard on Wood street next day.

THE ADDENDA.—The annual meeting of the Addenda Gold and Silver Mining Company was held on the 1st inst., 58,834 shares of stock being represented. The old Board, consisting of Richard O'Neill, Chas. F. Smyth, Joseph Furlong, Sam'l Dixon and John Dixon, was re-elected. T. H. Dixon was elected Secretary and Geo. A. McCormick Superintendent.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES.—The Democratic primary election came off Thursday afternoon at the Engine House. Much interest was manifested by friends of rival candidates, and 585 votes were polled. The delegates elected are said to favor Ed. Reddy for Sheriff, and Ben. H. Miller for County Clerk. The County Convention will be held here on Saturday next.

CONVENTION WEEK.—Next week will be Convention week in Bodie—the Republicans holding theirs on Wednesday, the Democratic pow wow to be on Saturday. Let best men win in both Conventions, say we. Both Coventions will have good material to select from, and if they don't do so, they will regret it.

DELEGATES.—The following are delegates to the Democratic Convention: Bodie, Taylor, McDermott, Huffaker, Brown, Gunn, Lazard, Deal, Maguire, Castello, Moore, Deal, Lewis, Baule and Fonk; Bridgeport, Summers, Severe, Obenchain and Fitzgerald.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARY.—The polls opened at 1 o'clock, and voting commenced at a brisk rate. There are three tickets in the field for sheriff—Taylor, Loose and Donnelly. At 4 o'clock 480 votes had been polled.

BOSH.—Our evening cotemporary must be hard run for matter, when it inflicts on its readers such bosh as that dog item in Wednesday's News. Its author must have an abundance of time at his disposal.

A YEARLING.—The Bodie Free Press has entered its second year with an assurance of continued success. Its young and enterprising publishers have our sincere well wishes.

FOR SHERIFF.—As far as heard from, the delegates to the Democratic Convention stand as follows: Massey, 10; Reddy, 8; 4 doubtful; with 17 to hear from. It takes 20 to nominate.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY.—L. Hollander continues to sell at low prices the best of watches and jewelry. He has a fine assortment.

FINE FRUIT.—E. F. Gibson, in Union Market Building, has a fine assortment of the best of fruit, at low prices.

COUNTY SEAT ITEMS.

[From the Bridgeport Union].

MONO LAKE AND THE "ROCKET."—On Sunday last, with a party of ladies, we visited Mono Lake and enjoyed its pleasures by rowing upon its placid waters for a couple of hours, and a pleasant excursion on the steamer Rocket, Captain Annis, to Bird Island, where the steamer laid to in Refuge Harbor—a snug cove about a quarter mile long and two hundred feet wide, while we climbed to its summit—about five hundred feet altitude. From this elevation a fine view of the lake is obtained, the hoisting works of the University, also, in sight. Captain Annis is erecting a dwelling at Grant Harbor, the anchorage of his steamer. The lake being twenty-seven miles long and from seven to fifteen miles wide, interpersed with numerous islands and rocks, violent storms of wind are frequent and the lake then resembles an immense bisin of soapsuds, and the islands, thirty and forty feet from base are tinted as white a snow. We cannot too highly commend to the people of Mono an excursion to and on this lake. Captain Annis, Engineer Myers, and the crew of the Rocket will accept thanks for courtesies extended us.

ROAD OVERSEERS.—The following are the Road Overseers appointed by the Supervisors: T. J. Cochran of Antelope, A. J. Severe, of Bridgeport; Hank Blackford, of Bodie; S. L. McNorton, of Benton; R. P. Fraser, of Lake.

PRIMARY.—The Democratic primaries were held on Thursday last. The delegates from Bridgeport are: A. J. Severe, Jesse M. Summers Joseph Fitzgerald and F. J. Obenchain. They are for Massey for Sheriff, and Miller for Clerk.

FUNDING.—A movement is in contemplation to fund most of the county indebtedness. The issurance of bonds at a low rate of interest would place our finances on a good basis, and they would be more available than warrants.

RAISED.—A large number of tax payors of Mono county has been notified by the State Board of Equalization that their assessments have been raised and that the 13th instant had been set to hear objections.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—The Board of Supervisors will meet on the 20th instant to appoint Inspectors and Judges of Election and transact such other business as may come before it.

GOOD BY!—The fruit teams and Sonora stage continue to pass through town loaded with passengers from Bodie. Good for all parties.

PERSONAL.—Judge Wiggin and County Clerk Miller returned from the Western Slope on Monday last.

COURT HOUSE.—Work on the new Court House was resumed on Tuesday, after a short suspension for want of material.

PURCHASED.—Pat Reddy and George M. Hill, of Bodie, have bought a lot on Main street near the new Court House.

ANOTHER BRICK.—James Byrnes contemplates the erection of a two story brick building near the new Court House.

REGISTER.—It should be remembered that Saturday, the 24 day of October, is the last day to register.

NEW PRECINCTS.—The Board of Supervisors established election precincts at Lundy and Kings.

DULL.—Dull times center around the Court House these days.

REMOVAL.—The UNION office has been removed to Towle's Building.

A boy of twelve years, dining at his uncle's, made such a good dinner that his aunt observed, "Johnny, you appear to eat well." "Yes," replied the urchin "I've been practising eating all my life."

STRONG LIKENESS.

We once told a story of two Shakers down East who so nearly resembled one another in characteristics. Here is another somewhat like it—a story of two brothers, who were lawyers, and practicing in the same town—which is certainly worth telling:

A certain gentleman requiring legal assistance had been recommended to one of the two brothers, but had forgotten the Christian name of him he sought, so he called at the office of the first found and asked for Mr. Podger.

"That is my name, sir."

"But there are two of you of that name here in town?"

"Yes."

"Well, I wish to consult the Mr. Podger—excuse me for the allusion—who wears a wig."

"We both wear wigs, sir."

"Well, the man I seek was divorced from his wife not long ago."

"There you hit us both again sir."

The man to whom I was recommended has recently been accused of forgery, though I trust, unjustly."

"There we are again, my dear sir. We have both had that gentle insinuation laid at our doors."

"Well, upon my word, you two brothers bear a striking resemblance But I guess I have it now. The one I am after is in the habit of occasionally drinking to excess—sometimes to intoxication."

"My dear man, that little vice, is unfortunately, characteristic of the pair of us; and I doubt if our best friends could tell you which was the worst."

"Well, you are a matched pair, certainly. But, tell me," continued the visitor, "which of the twain it was that took the poor debtor's oath a few months ago."

"Ha! ha! we were both in that muddle! I was on Bob's paper and he was on mine.

"In mercy's name!" cried the applicant desperately, "will you tell me which of the two is the most sensible man."

"Ah, there you touch bottom, my friend. Poor Bob, I can't stretch the truth, even to serve my brother. If you want the most sensible man of the two I suppose I must acknowledge the corn I'm the man."

Oxalic acid is considered one of the best agents to remove ink from dress goods Dissolve 10 cents' worth in a pint of soft water; dip the stained spots in the water quickly, and then into clear water, and rub well; repeat the process until the stains are removed. If the goods remain in the acid, the texture will be destroyed. The skin of hands is unpleasantly affected if brought into frequent contact with a strong solution; care should be taken to dip only the spots into this liquid. If the color of the dress is affected, mix with warm water and wet with a dilute solution of ammonia, which will restore the original color. Ink stains on table covers can be removed in the same way.

"TREASURY OF FACTS.—We have received from H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of the famous Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, a copy of their "American Almanac and Treasury of Facts," a statistical, financial and political work, compiled by Hon. A. R. Spofford, the Librarian of Congress. This is a valuable work of 288 pages, and is indeed a Treasury of Facts, for 1880, and creditable to its promoters, Warner & Co.

STAGE ROBBERS.—The Enterprise says: It is supposed that the two highwaymen who had such a long run on the Bodie road without getting into trouble must have carried with them a prospecting rig of picks, pans, shovels and cooking utensils which they kept in their camp. Thus they were able to play themselves off for honest prospectors. They were doubtless frequently seen by parties in search of the robbers at their camps and while scouting about.

An English Company has recently been organized under the statutes of this State for the manufacture of powder. Several acres of the Stege rancho, bordering on the bay, and at about three miles from Berkely, have been leased by the company, and several new buildings are now in course of construction.

In Calaveras county last week, a band of sheep was placed in two corrals, with a gateway between, and during the night became scared at something and all rushed into one corral, which was only large enough to hold half of them, and the consequence was that ninety-six fine sheep were smothered to death.

The S. F. Chronicle says that prejudice and defamation defeated the San Francisco charter. That is pretty good, seeing that 18,675 voted against it, and 4,075 in favor—a majority of 14,618 against it. Heap of "prejudice and defamation" in that city.

A large portion of Chinatown in Hornitos, Mariposa county, was destroyed by fire on Sunday last, and the same day Chinatown at Reno was nearly all destroyed by fire. The Chinese "must go."

SCARCITY OF YOUNG MEN.

Burdette, of the Burlington Hawkeye, is sojourning at Nantucket during this season. In one of his letters he relates the following incident, which will be fully appreciated by those to the manor born: One evening, I don't remember when, I introduced a young friend of mine, and he is young and very bashful, Julian C. Elginbrod, of Buffalo, to a young lady acquaintance, and after a few moments of society chatter, he suggested the ice cream saloon. Then up she arose and introduced him to two of her school girl friends, her mother, the mother of one of her friends, and an aunt who was visiting them. Then the aunt introduced him to her elder sister, and an old lady who was not a relative, they explained, but was as dear to them as though she was their own mother. Then they all said, in a general sort of way: "Well, are you all ready?" And answered themselves in the affirmative as they slowly followed the horror stricken young man to the door, and the procession filed off down the street toward the ice cream saloon, stopping on the way at a house to pick up the old lady's daughter, and calling at a store for the twin cousins of one of the aunts—beautiful girls they were—from Springfield. I watched the column when it swung by fours right into line in front of the ice cream saloon, where it formed like a line of men at a railway ticket office, the old lady smiling and patiently bringing up the rear, standing under the flickering gaslight and the steadfast stars, awaiting her chance at the frozen pudding. It was far, far in the Summer night when Julian Elginbrod returned to the hotel, and when I looked out of the window and saw his palid face and glittering eyes, and noted the club in one hand and the revolver in the other, and heard him mention my name and ask the night clerk what the number of my room was, I feared that he might feel harshly toward me, and barricaded the door of my room with the lounge, the bedstead, the stove and the trunk, just before he came banging against it. He slept in the hall that night across my threshold, and I only escaped the next afternoon when the landlord, aweary of his incessant pounding of my door panels with his club had him arrested as a dangerous lunatic.

A Spanish peasant, living in the suburbs of Madrid, has long been in the habit of repairing daily to the city, accompanied by a donkey laden with milk for distribution among certain customers. One day, however, the master was taken ill, whereupon his wife suggested that the ass be sent on his customary journey alone. The panniers were accordingly filled with cans of milk as usual, and a bit of paper was attached to the donkey's headstall, requesting customers to help themselves to their ordinary allowance of milk, and to put back the cans on the panniers. Off started the donkey, and he returned in due course with the cans empty and with everything in order. The master found, upon inquiry that the trusty messenger had called at the right doors without missing one, and also, that in some instances he had pulled the bell with his teeth when kept waiting. From that day forward the donkey has gone his rounds alone.

A REMARKABLE MAN.—David Smith, the centenarian, who died at Pittsburg, Pa., was a remarkable man. When the death of Washington gradually found it ways through the country he was nineteen years of age. All the improvements and wonderful inventions that now seem so common to us, have had their origin in his time. He often spoke of the laughter throughout the country when Fulton proposed to run a boat by steam, and then with a solemn shake of his head he would say to the graybeards that surrounded him, "Boys, never discredit what a man proposes to do until it has proved a failure. I would credit a man to-day as soon as if he said he was going to fly to the moon, as in 1800 I would have believed a man if he had said we would have the railroad, telegraph and telephone, as we have them to-day."—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

SOUND ADVICE.—Before you propose to know more than everybody else, my son, be very certain that you are at least abreast of two-thirds of your fellowmen. I don't want to suppress any inclination you may have toward genuine free thought and careful, honest investigation, my son. I only want you to avoid the great fault of atheism in this day and generation. I don't want to see you try to build a six-story house on a one-story foundation. Before you criticise, condemn and finally revise the work of creation, my son, be pretty confident that you know something about it as it is, and don't as a man older in years and experience than yourself, don't, let me implore you, don't turn this world upside down and set on it and flatten it entirely out, until you have made or secured another one for the rest of us to live in while you demolish the old one.

A belle of the Palais-Royal company was lamenting over the probability of sea-sickness in her transit across the Channel.—"And have you no dread of home-sickness?" asked an admirer. "I have no home," was the reply. "Or heart-sickness?" "I have very little of that either.'

Our Fuchur."

As soon as the meeting was fairly under way, Brother Gardner announced that Judge Affidavy Martin, late of Alabama, but now traveling in the North as agent of a patent fish-hook, was present and desired to address the club on "Our Future." It was voted to hear the address, and after being received and introduced, the Judge stood upon the platform and began:

"We mus' not look in de past fer our fucher. No man kin tell what the nex' hun'erd y'ars will bring fo'th by lookin' ober de fence of ole grakeyards! What am our fucher? Who kin tell what dis nashun will amount to if it keeps on in de way it hez begun? If eny one had told you twenty y'ars ago dat to-night I would stan' befo' you with a pup r collah on my neck, you would have set him as an assassin, yet de march of improvement has accomplished eben moar dan dat. Fur de sum of fifty cents you kin hav a brass watch chain fixed up so much like gold dat you kin work it in on a hoss trade for fifty dollars. Ef enybody had told George Washington dat de day would cum when shirts would button behind, what would that great man have said? Dis kentry am a mighty clock. Ebery time de pend'lum swings a child am bo'n. Ebery time de minit han' takes a jumb, somebody cums to de front wid a new sort o' stomach bitters, or an improved rat-trap. Ebery time an hour ticks off am a mile o' railroad built, a bridge laid down, a hill leveled or a forest cleared.—Sich of us as kin remember back a hun'erd y'ars can re'lize de change mo' dan de young folks. Sich of us as lib a hun'red y'ars in de fucher will not be surprised to see jugs wid free han'les, coffee pots that shet up like a jack-knife, rat-traps dat illuminate de house, an' rockin' cha'rs, dat sail aroun' on wheels."

The speaker closed midst cheers and applause, and for the remainder of the evening was given the seat of honor under the bear-trap.—Detroit Free Press.

A newspaper man's wife, who deserves a purse equal to her wit, says that she is in a quandary whether to get ready to go away on a vacation and stay at home, or not to get ready and go. She can afford to do one or the other, but not both.—Lowell Courier.

A belle of the Palais-Royal company was lamenting over the probability of sea-sickness in her transit across the Channel.—"And have you no dread of home-sickness?" asked an admirer. "I have no home," was the reply. "Or heart-sickness?" "I have very little of that either."

"What do you mean by humbugging, madam!" asked an ugly barrister of an old lady he was cross-examining. "I don't know as I can exactly say, sir; but if a lady was to say to you that you're a handsome man, that would be what I'd call humbugging."

"No, William," she mournfully said, still allowing him to retain her hand; "No, William, I can't marry you. I don't believe you can provide a wife with butter upon your present salary, and I can't eat oleomargarine."

A boy of twelve years, dining at his uncle's, made such a good dinner that his aunt observed, "Johnny, you appear to eat well." "Yes," replied the urchin "I've been practising eating all my life."

The army worm got as far as Boston, when a miss with eye-glasses called it by its right name. It immediately lay down and died.

MEDICAL.

Positively the Best. The makers were awarded the highest and only medal given to rubber plasters, at both the Centennial and Paris Expositions. Widely and favorably known among physicians as a great improvement on the ordinary porous plaster. Ask any physician in your own locality about it. The valuable qualities of the common porous plaster are in this article increased 10 fold by new and scientific medication. It relieves almost at once and cures where other plasters fail even to relieve. It is without doubt the best remedy ever devised for Lame and Weak Back, Rheumatism, Spinal and Kidney Complaints and all local aches and pains. Avoid imitations. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25c. HOOD'S GREAT BOOK OF THE WAR.

ADVANCE AND RETREAT;
Personal Experiences in the United States and Confederate States Armies.

BY GENERAL J. B. HOOD,
Late Lieutenant-General Confederate States Army.

Published for the
HOOD ORPHAN MEMORIAL FUND, BY
GEN. G. T. BEAUREGARD.
New Orleans, 1880.

THE ENTIRE PROCEEDS ARISING FROM the sale of this work are devoted to the Hood Orphan Memorial Fund which is invested in U. S. Registered funds for the nurture, care, support and education of the ten infants deprived of their parents last Summer at New Orleans, (the melancholy incidents of which sad bereavement are still fresh in the public mind.

The book is an elegant octavo, containing 360 pages, with a fine photograph likeness and a fine steel engraving, made expressly for this work, four large maps of battle fields, bound in handsome gray English cloth, at $3; or in a fine sheep binding, with marble edge, $3 50; in half-bound morocco, library style, $4, or in best Levant Turkey morocco, full gilt sides and edges, $5.

On the receipt from any person remitting by mail or express, of the amount in a registered letter, or by postal order, bank draft or check a copy will be immediately sent free of postage, registered as second-class matter.

The volume is published in the best style of typography, on elegant paper, with illustrations executed as highest specimens of art.

The author, the subject, the purpose, all alike render it worthy a place in every library, on every desk, or upon the book shelf of every house in the country.

Agents wanted in every town and county in the United States, and a preference will be given to honorably discharged veterans from the army.

To the ladies, who feel a desire to express their sympathy with the "Hood Orphan Memorial Fund," the sale of this book amongst their circle of friends will afford an excellent way of contributing substantial aid to so deserving a cause.
